Coastal Pacific Xpress Inc. announces ownership change in affiliate Blue Chip Logistics Inc.

Surrey, B.C., Sept 30, 2009 – Effective the 1st of October, Dale Parsons has purchased the half of Blue Chip Logistics (BCL) formerly owned by CPX to bring his shareholding to 100%. When BCL was launched in 2002, it was intended that it would eventually become a freestanding organization and operate totally autonomous from CPX. Since it has been many years since CPX has had a majority position in the customer mix at BCL, it is obvious that BCL has matured beyond the initial needs of the partnership and now can function completely on its own. Clearly there will still be an ongoing business relationship of significance to each party, and some degree of co-management of customers as the case may warrant, but each organization has its own mandate and sense of direction and rightfully should have the purity of purpose that comes from non-connected share ownership.
